DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-11, 12-16, 18-19, 22-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

With regards to claim 1, applicant uses the phrase “a wireless service” both in the preamble and in line 5. It is not clear if they are different services.

With regards to claim 1, the method transfers information between a subscriber and a wireless service. Wireless services are supported by a wireless network and information is transmitted between the subscriber and the wireless network. Hence the use of the phrase subscriber service in the preamble and line 6 is confusing.

Art Unit: 2661

With regards to claim 1, line 6-7, it is the service node that uses the determined address to forward information over the alternative network and not the subscriber. Hence it is not clear what the applicant means by transferring information between the subscriber and the wireless service using the determined address.

With regards to claims 1, 12, 16, 18, 19, it is not clear what applicant means by an "address adressable by an alternative network". It is not clear if applicant means an address assigned by the alternative network or an address capable of being understood by the the alternative network for routing purposes.

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the admitted prior art in view of Hartmaier. (6,034,753)

Art Unit: 2661

With regards to claim 1, the admitted prior art teaches a method comprising the steps of:

receiving a registration request for the subscriber at a service node(Fig. 1, MSC)

What the admitted prior art fails to teach is determining at the service node an address addressable by an alternative network and associated with a wireless service(Tip address) transferring information between the subscriber and the wireless service using the alternative network address(Tip address used for routing over data network). It would have been obvious to combine Hartmaier with the admitted prior art for the purpose enabling transmission over IP network. The motivation being to enable mobile user access to the internet.

Allowable Subject Matter
